

GOP convention may be moved from Kansas City

WASHINGTON (AP)—Kansas City could lose this year's Republican convention, possibly to Miami Beach, in a dispute over hotel space, party leaders say.

Local officials claim they may fall as much as 10 per cent short of providing the Republicans the 16,000 rooms promised for the August event.

GOP officials say if they can't have all the rooms pledged they are prepared to move their convention to another city.

Kansas City Mayor Charles Wheeler summoned hotel representatives for a meeting today in an effort to find the extra accommodations.

"Presumably the mayor will exert pressure on the hotel association to come up with the rooms we were promised," a GOP spokesman in Washington said.

He said the party is hopeful the dispute can be settled and the rooms found so the convention can stay in Kansas City.

"We are certainly not anxious to move it," he said.

But other party officials said Tuesday that a shift in the convention site is a real possibility.

"We did it in May of 1972 and we could do it again if we have to," said Josephine Good, the party's convention director.

In 1972, the convention was moved from San Diego, Calif., to Miami Beach. The Florida resort also was the site of the 1968 Republican convention.

Miss Good said Miami Beach would almost certainly be the alternative site. "It appears to be the only place with enough hotel rooms and where the convention hall will be available in August," she said.

The apparent shortage of hotel rooms in Kansas City is generally due to the desire by big hotels there to hold back some rooms for other customers. "I think in its zeal to get the convention, the city's convention bureau overestimated the number of rooms there would be," Miss Good said.

Meanwhile, there were these developments:

—GOP hopeful Ronald Reagan faced a new controversy because of his suggestion last week that Social Security funds be invested in the stock market.

Reagan, campaigning in New Hampshire, said his suggestion did not mean he necessarily favors such investments. Commerce Secretary Elliot L. Richardson, campaigning there for President Ford, said any such move could play havoc with U.S. companies.

—Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-

Tex., said his withdrawal Tuesday as a national contender for the presidency allows him to concentrate on his re-election campaign for the Senate.

—By the Tuesday deadline for the March 2 Vermont primary, only President Ford had entered the Republican race, while Democrats Fred Harris, Jimmy Carter, Ellen McCormack and Sargent Shriver had entered.

Shelling by Soviet ships reported

By The Associated Press

Soviet ships are being used to bombard two coastal cities controlled by pro-Western forces in Angola, a spokesman for the National Union — UNITA — said today.

He denied a claim by the Soviet and Cuban-backed Popular Movement — MPLA — that it had already captured the two towns involved, Benguela and Lobito, but added that it was probably only a matter of a short time before they fell. He gave no other details about the Soviet ships.

British correspondents reported that the MPLA and Cuban forces were moving toward confrontation with the South African army.

The MPLA attacks on the two cities are part of an increasingly successful offensive recently launched by the movement in a bid to oust UNITA from the cities and towns it still controls. In the past week the provisional UNITA and National Front — FNLA — capital of Huambo and the coastal town of Novo Redondo, north of Benguela and Lobito, have fallen to the MPLA.

Jane Bergerol of the London Financial Times reported from Luanda, the Angolan capital, that the MPLA (Popular Movement) announced its unopposed occupation Tuesday of Benguela, the coastal terminus of the Benguela Railroad, and Lobito, the country's chief port 20 miles to the north.

"The rout of the pro-Western UNITA (National Union) in southern Angola now is virtually complete.... A direct confrontation with the South African army now seems imminent," Nicholas Ashford of the Times of London reported from Johannesburg.

The MPLA regime, which earlier took most of northern Angola from the FNLA (National Front), another Western-backed faction, also scored a diplomatic victory with the announcement by President Idi Amin of Uganda that the Organization of African Unity now recognizes it as the legitimate government of Angola. Amin is the president of the OAU.

An MPLA broadcast reported there was no resistance to the forces that moved into Benguela and Lobito and the people of the two towns gave them a "resounding welcome," the Financial Times correspondent said.

The broadcast "made clear the Luanda government has no intention of stopping its southern advance or of leaving the South African forces to continue their occupation of southern Angola," Miss Bergerol said.

"The broadcast said the offensive will now move on toward the southern city of Sa da Bandeira, some 200 miles south, which has an important air base for the South African forces.

The South African army is reported to have established a mined defense line manned by an estimated 5,000 troops 50 miles north of the border between Angola and South-West Africa (Namibia) and about 100 miles south of Sa da Bandeira. The South African government says its troops are in southern Angola to defend the Cunene Dam on the Cunene river, which forms part of the border and supplies electricity to South-West Africa.

The capture of Benguela and Lobito last weekend of Huambo, 150 miles from the coast, gave the MPLA control of both ends of the strategic railroad, an outlet before the civil war for copper from Zambia and Zaire. Following the fall of Huambo, which had been the UNITA capital, MPLA and Cuban forces were also reported advancing on Silva Porto, UNITA's military headquarters 90 miles to the east, and on Luso, 175 miles from the eastern end of the railway. The MPLA has held the eastern end of the line at Teixeira de Sousa for months.

Amin, in announcing the OAU recognition of the MPLA regime, also announced his own government's recognition and said it was the 26th of the 46 OAU nations to endorse the pro-Soviet faction. He said that under OAU rules, recognition by a majority of the membership automatically made the MPLA Angola's legitimate representative in international affairs.

Reagan here on Feb. 23

Ronald Reagan, the presidential candidate from California, will return home Feb. 23.

He will arrive in Tampico, his birthplace, about 11 a.m. and is expected to be in Dixon about 2 p.m.

If Secret Service agents approve, Reagan will make an appearance in Dixon High School's Lancaster gymnasium.

Stevens ordered held for trial

Gary Stevens, 33, was ordered held for trial Tuesday during a preliminary hearing before Associate Judge Martin D. Hill. Stevens, 2304 W. First St., is charged in connection with an alleged luxury car theft ring operating in Chicago.

He faces charges of grand theft and possession of marijuana.

Lee County sheriff's detective Al Williams testified Tuesday during the hearing that Stevens told him he purchased a 1972 Lincoln Continental Mark 4 in Chicago for $500 and sold it later for $2,000 to David White, Dixon.

A 1976 model Lincoln, also reported stolen from Chicago, was impounded by deputies on Jan. 16, when Stevens was arrested at his place of work. Williams testified Stevens told him he knew the car was stolen from an "unknown address" in Chicago.

Stevens appeared in court with his Chicago attorney, Michael Pritzker.

The marijuana charge stemmed from a search of Stevens' home in which deputies found a quantity of the substance in the basement.

Stevens is free on bond. He is expected to enter a plea during an arraignment hearing. No date has been set for that hearing.

Stevens had been charged with possession of marijuana over 500 grams, a felony.

In other dispositions Tuesday, a charge of deceptive practice placed against Jackson Heather, Oregon, on Jan. 28 was dismissed on a motion from the state's attorney's office.

A charge of theft placed against Jack Calabrese, 34, Elgin, was dismissed on a motion from the state's attorney's office.

Federal judges seek salary hikes in suit filed in court of claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-four of the nation's federal judges, complaining they're being cheated by inflation, sued Uncle Sam today for fatter paychecks.

Those in the unusual reversal of roles from judge to plaintiff include Oliver J. Carter, currently presiding over the trial of Patricia Hearst in San Francisco.

The suit was filed in the U.S. Court of Claims. A statement by the judges mentions that no judge of that court "is included as a plaintiff in the lawsuit" though any decision in favor of the plaintiffs would favor all federal judges.

The judges base their suit, naming the United States as defendant, on a constitutional provision that pay for the lifetime-appointed judges "shall not be diminished."

They say that compensation "in its constitutional context does not mean salary but purchasing power." For their lawyer, the judges chose former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg.

Even before the suit was filed, some judges in different parts of the country distributed a "my dear editor" letter along with the petition and a separate statement. The letter said "we have been unfairly singled out and discriminated against."

The suit asks that the government reimburse the judges for a 34.5 per cent decrease in the value of their pay dollar in the period from March 15, 1969, to Oct. 1, 1975. During that period, federal district judges earned $40,000 a year and appeals court judges $42,500.

They claim that inflation reduced their spending power to about $26,200 a year for district judges and $27,800 for the appeals judges.

"Unlike most citizens of the United States who are gainfully employed, including most federal employees, federal judges received no increase in salary to adjust for this decrease," the petition says.

Plaintiffs are 38 district judges and six from appeals courts. Eleven are chief judges of their districts and two are chief judges of their appeals courts. One plaintiff, Thomas Lambros of Cleveland, said "judges could be out working as lawyers making two or three times their judicial salaries."

He said that "unlike others in government such as senators and representatives who can supplement their income through outside activities, we are totally and completely withdrawn from other activities."

Another plaintiff, Judge Thomas MacBride of Sacramento, Calif., said the judges are seeking a "catch-up." He said his "chief law clerk, who is out of law school just over a year, makes almost one-half of my salary, notwithstanding that I've been out for 36 years and a federal judge for 14 years."

Some federal judges not involved in the lawsuit said they were against the idea of judges suing and questioned the ethics of such a step.

Kinn appointed Ogle probation officer

OREGON—Ogle County Board members Tuesday appointed Don Kinn as adult probation officer to replace Spencer Blanchard, who resigned his post to seek political office. Kinn has been the juvenile probation officer.

Although the appointment brings about a vacancy in the juvenile division, no action was taken to hire a replacement. Kinn and his secretary, Lori Behan, were given pay increases to $12,900; a $1,900 increase for Kinn and $900 hike for Behan.

Blanchard was asked, by Circuit Judge John Moore, to resign after he announced his candidacy in the March 19 Republican primary for circuit clerk.

The board dealt Blanchard another setback when they voted to have Kinn take over the directorship of the Volunteers in Probation program. At the time Blanchard resigned, he told the board he would continue on as director with no reimbursement.

Board members expressed concern over submitting a grant for continued funding of the VIP program in light of Blanchard's non-official capacity. The grant calls for the director to be a county officer. The program is in its second year of operation.

Tentative approval was given to Monday operating hours at the Byron Dragway over the Memorial and Labor Day weekends. Board chairman, Charles Finch, Mt. Morris, acting in his capacity as licensing director, said the request was brought to him by Ron Leake, operator of the dragstrip.

Under terms of the present ordinance, racing is allowed on Friday from 3 p.m. to 12:15 a.m.; Saturday, 8 a.m. until 12:15 a.m., and Sunday 8 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. Hoffman said the amendment will allow Monday operation from 8 a.m. until 12:15 a.m.

The chairman said he talked with Byron residents before recommending approval of the change: "The only objectors were from those people living across the street—and all of those people have moved into the neighborhood since the dragway was opened."

The board gave County Highway Supt. R. E. Erickson authority to proceed with bidding for the purchase of two dump trucks to replace two vintage-model trucks.

Members approved the reappointment of Mrs. Roland Larson and W. J. Schwartzbaugh to the Ogle County Mental Health Board for a four-year term.

In other action, the board referred the following petitions to the Zoning Board of Appeals for recommendations:

—Don L. Saunders, Polo, request for zoning change from AG-1 to R-2 for purpose of developing a subdivision, Brookville Township.

—Donald Alecock, Lindenwood, request for zoning change from AG-1 to R-3 for the purpose of establishing a multiple-family dwelling in Lynnvill Township.

—Lyle Hopkins, Polo, request for zoning change from AG-1 to AG-2 and special use permit, Pine Creek Township.

—Phillip D. Cox, Egan, request to permit a home occupation in an R-2 district for a radiator shop, in Leaf River Township.

—Thomas G. Klein, Oregon, request for zoning change from AG-1 to I-2 for purpose of expanding an existing operating quarry, Oregon Township.

—Vincent Lingg, Polo, request for zoning change from AG-1 to C-2 for purpose of establishing a restaurant and garage, in Pine Creek Township.

—Thomas Schell, Polo, request for zoning change from AG-1 to AG-2 and special use, Pine Creek Township.

—Arlyn Bryson, Polo, request for zoning change from R-2 to AG-1 for purpose of establishing a livestock depot and special use for installation of a livestock depot and sales yard, Buffalo Township.

Three hope to avoid Hearst trial testimony

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Despite grants of immunity, three persons who reportedly saw a cheerful Patricia Hearst in a Symbionese Liberation Army hideout are battling to stay off the witness stand at her bank-robbery trial.

The prosecution planned to call the three again today at Miss Hearst's trial. Its attempt to elicit testimony Tuesday was lost in a protracted legal wrangle.

U.S. Atty. James L. Brown wants the witnesses to testify at a special evidentiary hearing outside the presence of the jury that Miss Hearst apparently stayed with the SLA of her own free will.

U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter signed a limited form of immunity for the three Tuesday, but the first witness called after Carter's action, Jamellea Mumtaz of Oakland, promptly invoked Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination.

Attorneys for the other two witnesses, Ronald Tate and Retimah X, both of San Francisco, said each intended to plead the same constitutional right.

All three were called to testify as rebuttal witnesses to counter a move by defense attorney F. Lee Bailey to suppress as evidence a taped admission from Miss Hearst that she voluntarily joined the SLA in the April 15, 1974, bank robbery.

Bailey also does not want the jury to hear the testimony of Thomas Dean Matthews, a 19-year-old Los Angeles area man once held captive by Miss Hearst and SLA members William and Emily Harris.

Matthews testified at the hearing Tuesday that Miss Hearst told him she freely joined the SLA and showed skill and expertise with semiautomatic weapons.

Carter agreed to a form of immunity that does not prohibit prosecution in the future against the three who refused to testify but insures that their testimony at Miss Hearst's trial cannot be used against them.

It was learned the three were neighbors in the predominantly black section of San Francisco where the SLA hid for several months after kidnapping Miss Hearst on Feb. 4, 1974.

SLA leader, Donald "Cinque" DeFreeze, reportedly introduced them to Miss Hearst, and they said she proudly told them of her revolutionary exploits with the terrorist group. She seemed happy, they said.

Shortly before the bank robbery, Miss Hearst said in a tape that she had joined the SLA. She renounced that tape during testimony Monday as she did all SLA communications containing her voice.

She said she feared for her life from the time she was abducted until her arrest last Sept. 18.

Soviet spies in West German BND

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt is the unrevealed recipient of a behind-the-scenes shock. It was handed to him in a secret parliamentary "eyes only" investigative report on West Germany's Bundesnachrichtendienst (BND) undercover police.

It documents Red infiltration of the BND on a scale even exceeding the infiltration on the Nazi ABWER by the famous Fremde Herre Ost, the German anti-Soviet intelligence division. The Soviet called this Red penetration (run by German Rudolf Roessler) the "Lucky Ring."

With Germany's collapse in World War II, the Nazi Gestapo moved its main files from Berlin to the Salzburg and Innsbruck areas where this year's 12th Winter Olympic Games are being held.

They scattered their deep in the Tyrolean Salzhemmern and Styrian Lakes, lowering the files in watertight chests accompanied by millions of Nazi-counterfeited British pounds.

Two British agents sought them, hidden in Lake Toplitz. But the Soviet KGB agents murdered them and left their bodies on the crags above Lake Toplitz. And only eight years ago—known to the West German BND—Soviet agents located similar Gestapo files in Czechoslovakia's lakes by large-scale diving and dredging.

Using these Gestapo file lists for blackmail, the Soviet enlisted numerous former Gestapo agents for Soviet espionage and planted them throughout the East German intelligence service, the Staatssicherheit (SSD).

In fact, there are today at least 400 hard-core ex-Nazis in the East German government—including Gen. Willi Stoph, the prime minister for the last nine years who took over the presidential role Oct. 3, 1973.

The SSD is an arm of the Soviet KGB. They operate together in East Germany and, in Moscow, the SSD cooperates from a guarded building at 19 Stanislavskaya St., opposite the East German Embassy.

In the BND intelligence, V-Mann stands for Vetraneus-Mann; a trusted man. It goes back to the Prussian Kings' secret service started centuries ago by spymaster Wilhelm Stieber whose V-men, disguised as carpenters, waiters, etc., infiltrated Austria's military establishments and made possible Prussia's 1866 conquest of Austria in a short 45 days.

And the secret parliamentary report describes many of the V-men as Soviet agents.

The revelation to Chancellor Schmidt deals in detail with Gunther Guillaume, an assistant and intimate of former Chancellor Willy Brandt, whose arrest forced Brandt to resign.

Guillaume's wife Christel was arrested with him. Both came from East Germany 18 years earlier as supposed refugees from Communism, but both were trained products of the Soviet KGB.

The East German spy apparatus calls a trained agent "Kalegestallt" who is "on ice" waiting to function and the KGB, through the STB, placed Guillaume "on ice" on his arrival.

Then in September, 1957, the KGB placed Guillaume in Brandt's Social Democratic party. In 1964 he became party secretary in Frankfurt. After Brandt became chancellor, the KGB contrived to have Brandt take Guillaume into his Chancellery office.

Guillaume advanced into a highly confidential position with Brandt and, on Feb. 1, 1973, Brandt named him one of three personal assistants. But much later Guillaume was shown to be an officer in the East German army working for the KGB and reporting to the Kremlin.

The secret parliamentary report is scathing of Brandt's immediate support of Guillaume before Brandt resigned.

The report also reveals the delivery back to Moscow of at least 15,000 intelligence photographs and 300 rolls of secret films by still another Red agent.

It deals, in turn, with the hushed-up suicide (hunting rifle) of Adm. Hermann Luede, deputy chief of NATO's logistic command, in the Eifel mountains. A search of the admiral's Bonn residence uncovered nine secret military documents on hidden microfilms.

The report couples the Luede suicide with the prompt suicides of Maj. Gen. Horst Wendtland, deputy chief of the BND; Lieut. Col. Johannes Grimm, a Defense Ministry counter-intelligence officer; Hans-Heinrich Schenk, an Economics Ministry senior official, and Bonn Federal Press Librarian Edeltraud Grapentin.

Chancellor Schmidt cannot push the secret report under the rug for it comes from the West German parliament. The committee members call the BND a sieve—and so does our own Central Intelligence Agency.

"It's equal rights — I have a right to smoke and you have a right to wear a mask!"

U.S.-Canada TV war heats up

WASHINGTON (LENS)— The television war along the American-Canadian border is heating up. This week the Canadian Radio and Television Commission ordered two cable television stations in Montreal to cut American commercials from the programs they import or they will not have their licenses renewed.

That was a blow to the Federal Communications Commission and the state department in Washington. They had just sent a delegation to Ottawa to try to persuade the Canadians to relax their order that American advertisements on Canadian cable television be blacked out.

The FCC had already been embarrassed by the request of three television stations in Buffalo, New York, to retaliate. They have asked for permission to jam their own signals so that these cannot be received in Canada at all.

The chairman of the FCC, Richard Wiley, is trying delaying tactics but the news from Montreal will only increase the anger of other American stations, whose signals are picked up in Canada without any recompense.

The competition for television audiences and the transmission of each other's programs are facts of life along the long border between the United States and Canada. Most Canadians living in the southern part of their country can receive as many American channels as Canadian, either through the air on ordinary aeriols or—as is very popular—through the cables supplied by cable television companies.

The cable companies pick up the American signals with very high border towers. While they have the technical ability to wipe out the commercials and substitute other material—public service announcements or commercials of their own—they have not done this and have transmitted the American fare in its entirety. As a result, Canadian advertisers, in order to reach a large part of their Canadian audience, have been spending about $20 million a year to place advertisements on American border television stations.

Polluted pipedreams

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)— The official from the Environmental Protection Agency wasn't happy. "A company asks us to proffer advice on cutting pollution," he said, "we go but if we find something wrong, we lay on a fine and report the firm for noncompliance."

"We ease our consciences by telling the plant manager in advance that's what we're going to do," he said.

"We enact regulations few companies from quite a range of industries can possibly follow this year or next. And we know this."

Yet the men who make the decisions, lawyers almost to the man, says EPA is an enforcement agency, and that there's no place for those hoping to lend a helping hand.

"We're supposed to catch violators and punish them—not let them escape," they say.

"I sometimes think," the EPA spokesman says, "that some of those legal types are looking to their own future when they're setting policies and writing intricate regulations laymen can't understand. After a period at EPA they'll resign, make a good living advising clients for a fee on how to deal with the regulations they've written."

"We at the agency," says my contact, "know that the pollution practices we're attempting to change overnight have been common for decades in one form or another. I'll be happy if we can correct them in 10 or 30 years."

"Though we know that the average businessman, especially the man with little capital working on close margins, can't possibly comply with our demands, we hope that by these rough tactics we can push most firms into doing more than they think they can more quickly than they're willing to admit. And sometimes this iron fist approach works. In the meantime we've stirred up a lot of ill will. There must be a better way," he continued.

"Instead of asking companies to do the impossible, we should be out there working with them to learn what they can do, with what they have, to cut back on the pollution their firms create."

"I've had company men tell me if we'd be reasonable they'd do everything they could to clean things up as fast as their finances and their production techniques would permit," an EPA official continued. "But if I push them to the wall, they'll buck, not bend. The smart ones know we can't carry out our threats. Some tell us so to our faces—then ask us what we want, co-operation to the limit of their abilities or a dog eat dog fight we can't possibly win. In cases like this—where the businessman stands up for his rights—my experience is that we at EPA back down. Not always, but a good deal of the time, with one face-saving gesture or another, though the true facts don't get in the record."

Shift story now to a meeting of a government advisory board of businessmen and university and financial representatives.

In one form or another, their conversations run like this:

"These environment men say we've got to do this and we've got to do that. A lot of these regulations they throw at us don't make sense. To us, they're theories someone has dreamed up, not bothering to check what they'll do to our production schedules or our costs. They give us no evidence that their demands are necessary. Some sound like pipe dreams. But we go ahead, spend considerably more than we can afford, to comply."

"Then someone discovers the regulations were wrong. The things we were forced to do were ineffective or do more harm than good. So they change the rules. Then change them again. In my business we're losing respect for EPA which is too bad because we do have to do something about pollution. But somebody better find out what is essential and what not—and what kind of a timetable is necessary."

Too much fishing; not enough fish

By DON OAKLEY

The capitalists, according to orthodox Marxist theory, are supposed to be the rip-off artists of the world, recklessly plundering its resources for the sake of immediate profits.

Curious thing, though, it is the Communists who are demonstrating the greatest greed and least concern for the welfare of future generations, at least in one vital category.

Scores of Soviet and other East European trawlers, accompanied by huge factory ships and refrigerated transports up to 600 feet long, are ravaging the waters off the Atlantic coast, charge American fishermen.

"Our own fishing industry can't compete with that," says John W. Brown, of the Emergency Committee to Conserve America's Marine Fisheries.

"We have small, family-owned operations, using 65-foot side trawlers. We go out and come back in the same day. They can stay out for months. There is no way we can compete with those big ships."

Haddock is practically an endangered species already, he says. Herring is declining rapidly. Cod is seriously jeopardized.

In response to these cries of alarm, which have been mounting for the past five years, the House last October and the Senate just the other day voted bills establishing a 200-mile fishing limit off U.S. coasts.

Both bills, which must now be combined into a single piece of legislation, would defer the effective date of the limit to allow time for the 144-national Law of the Sea Conference to come up with an over-all oceanographic treaty defining the rights and obligations of nations in the use and conservation of the world's marine resources. The House version sets a date of July 1, 1976, the Senate Version July 1, 1977.

Such an international agreement would be preferable to unilateral action by the United States. We have, after all, protested the 200-mile fishing limit claimed by certain Latin American countries off their Pacific coasts.

But the signing of this bill by President Ford, when it reaches him in its final form, would serve notice that we will not stand by indefinitely and watch our little, independent "capitalists" be fished into oblivion by the massively organized fleets of the so-called "people's republics."

The Lee County Chapter, American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) met in the Knights of Columbus Home Monday with 124 members and guests present. The invocation was given by Rev. Tom W. Shepherd, pastor of the First Christian Church Disciples of Christ, and Miss Zoia Favorite provided music for group singing.

The book, "The Power of Years," by Ethel Percy Andrus, AARP founder and first president, was presented to Miss Helen Miller for the Dixon Public Library.

Richard Boyer, principal of Dixon High School, was given a certificate of appreciation for the staff and students of Dixon High School for their courtesies extended to Dixon's senior citizens.

Miss Miller offered the downstairs library room to the AARP for holding their defensive driving course in April. Trooper Jerry O'Sadnick will be the instructor and anyone wishing to sign up for the course should contact John Small at 288-4031.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
East's two-heart opening was one of those weak two bids that are common in American expert circles. It led his opponents to an unmakeable five-club contract, but when East slipped on defense Billy Eisenberg brought the contract home.

West should have led his six of hearts. When you have raised with three small trumps, you should lead the top. But West led the deuce. East decided it was a fourth best and instead of cashing a second heart shifted to a diamond.

Billy hopped up with the ace of diamonds, took the spade finesse, discarded a heart on the ace of spades, studied a while and led a diamond to his 10 spot.

West shifted to the 10 of trumps, but Billy was in command. He won with his ace, ruffed a diamond with the eight of trumps, ruffed a spade back to his hand, ruffed his last diamond with the jack of trumps, came to his hand by ruffing another spade and claimed his contract.

Questers Nachusa Chapter

When Questers Nachusa Chapter held its meeting recently Mrs. Cecil Laughlin was hostess.

Miss Evelyn Roberts presented an informative program on "Heisey Glass," which was produced from 1896 to 1957. Much of it was made too recently to be labeled antique, but is a popular collectible, said Miss Roberts.

She continued with a brief history: "The founder of the company was Augustus Heisey, a German immigrant who served in the Civil War. His wife was the daughter of a glass manufacturer and, in 1895, he opened a glass factory in Newark, Ohio."

Miss Roberts then talked about the glass itself. "Heisey glass has a beautiful brilliance and quality. Much at first was made for commercial use but, later, many patterned pieces were made. The identifying mark of Heisey crystal was the 'H' within the diamond, although not all Heisey has an identifying mark. Also, other companies bought Heisey and added their own decorations. Heisey experimented with many colors.

"The plant suffered a decline in its profits" said Miss Roberts, "and closed in 1957 and sold out to the Imperial Glass Co., which now uses its own label." She told the group that a Heisey Glass Museum is now open at Newark, Ohio.

The evening concluded with an auction conducted by Mrs. Olin Hall.

Create a crusty cobbler

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Sad the individual who grows up without the mouth-watering experience of having eaten a cobbler. This deep dish fruit pie with a thick upper crust is a very special treat during fresh fruit season, but also may be made with frozen or canned fruits. For a dessert treat try a blueberry oven cobbler with a foamy sauce for topping.

BLUEBERRY OVEN COBBLER

WITH FOAMY SAUCE

- 1 quart fresh or frozen blueberries, rinsed and drained
- 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 cup flour
- 1 cup water
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
- 1 teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 1 package refrigerator biscuits.

FOAMY SAUCE:

- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup confectioners' sugar
- 1 egg white, unbeaten
- 2 tablespoons orange juice
- 1/2 cup boiling white wine or orange juice

In a 9-inch square baking pan place blueberries, sugar, flour and water. Stir to blend. Sprinkle with walnuts, spices and dot top with bits of butter. Cover and bake in a 425-degree oven for 15 minutes. Remove from oven and remove cover. Place biscuits on top of mixture. Replace in oven and bake uncovered another 15 minutes or until biscuits are puffed and brown.

While biscuits are baking, make sauce. Mix butter and sugar in a saucepan. Stir in egg white and orange juice. Stir in boiling wine. Place over low heat and stir rapidly until mixture foams. Stir for 2 minutes over low heat until sauce is thickened. Serve hot in bowl, floating a few blueberries on top. Spoon hot sauce over each serving of Blueberry Cobbler. Makes 8 servings. ## High school tougher these days

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 16-year-old male whose mother is ruining my nervous system. Today I had a very rough day in school, got home — beat — about 5:00 p.m., and decided to take a little nap. Mom came home (from shopping) at 5:30. She woke me up and started to yell, "How come you haven't started supper yet?" I told her my day was tougher than hers — and that's when everything hit the fan.

Why is it, mothers don't realize school is not just play? My homework assignments take at least three hours every night. (I'm an honor-roll student and work hard). I keep my room neat and help Mom get supper. I empty the trash and do errands and odd jobs around the house. Her favorite line is, "School can't be THAT hard."

When I was your age . . . Then I get the broken record. Please be on my side. I need it. — Blood, Sweat And Tears
Dear B.S.T.: I AM on your side. School is much more difficult today than it was 25 years ago. It's highly competitive and there's a great deal more to learn.

A 16-year-old honor-roll student who spends three hours every night on homework, keeps his room clean, empties the trash, does errands and helps his mom get supper sounds pretty darned good to me. I think your mom should stop hassling you and get off your back.

Dear Ann Landers: Twelve years ago I married Herman because I loved him. It so happens he lived in the fur business but that's not why I married him. In the last seven years I've had 12 beautiful fur coats. So what am I complaining about? Well, every time a woman admires my coat, he sells it right off my back.

Last night we went to a civic affair and had to sit outside in the reviewing stand for two hours. I almost froze to death in my old cloth coat. Herman sold my mink the night before.

How can I get him to stop this nutty practice? Shivering in Illinois

Dear Shiv: Be proud you are Herman's best "model." But tell him that from now on you refuse to give up your fur coat until he provides you with another one. In the meantime, think mink, but keep some thermal underwear handy.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm afraid "Outside Looking In" is right. College does something to relationships between kids and their parents. It's not that the kids get swell-headed and feel superior. Environment and peer pressure win out over early training.

Our daughter graduated in three years. Lucky she was a bright student. One more year on that campus and she'd have been ruined.

We had some long talks. When she told me what most of her friends were into I was white-knuckled. She confessed that she just couldn't bring herself to go along with the crowd because of what she'd been taught at home. She hated me for a while, and admitted it.

We were more fortunate than some of our friends. Their kids were awfully sweet before they went to college — and now they are terribly messed up. — G.F.L.

Dear G.F.L.: Environment and peer pressure CAN be a tremendous influence, but early training has kept many a child steady. Yours for example. Thanks for sharing. (Copyright 1976, Field Enterprises, Inc.)

Progress on Ogle Historical book

OREGON — Almost half of the new Bicentennial History of Ogle County has been set in print and pasted up in dummy pages, Mrs. Robert Fletcher told members of the Ogle County Bicentennial Commission recently.

Mrs. Fletcher, Mt. Morris, is serving as editor of the book which is scheduled for publication this spring. She said that the book, which is planned for about 600 pages, will include close to 600 pictures, many of which have never been seen by the public.

According to Mrs. Fletcher, approximately 120 individuals have been at work on the book over the past two and a half years since the project began. A total of perhaps 500 people have had input into the book, including those who have provided pictures, anecdotes and research materials.

Among the areas to be covered in the book, which will have a specially designed Bicentennial cover, are the early history, trails and roads, justice in early Ogle County, the geology of the country, and the flora to be found in the county. Other chapters include a detailed account of the visits of Abraham Lincoln to the county's participation in the wars of the United States, with special emphasis on the Civil War, and an extensive history of agriculture in the county.

A special section has been devoted to prominent people in and from the county, including A. G. Spaulding of baseball fame and former governor and possible presidential candidate Frank Lowden.

Each township has also been written up in a separate chapter, with pictures depicting both past and contemporary life.

The hard-cover volume is expected to be available in the late spring of 1976. Pre-publication orders, at a discount, may be placed through to office of the Bicentennial Commission, 112 S. Fifth St., Oregon, Ill. 61061, or by calling 732-2367.

'Step into Yesteryear' is Petunia Festival theme

"A Step Into Yesteryear" has been chosen as the theme for Dixon's 12th Annual Petunia Festival. The motto is the same as that being used for the April 29th Bicentennial Fashion Show, a joint endeavor of the Lee County Bicentennial Committee and the festival corporation.

Festival president, John Kuster, stated "The board had given considerable thought to a patriotic-type slogan for 1976. However, the chosen theme is one that allows for recognition of any nationwide occurrence during the past 200 years and does not necessarily restrict parade entries to a limited period of time."

Kuster also advised that Lee County centenarians will be invited to serve as grand marshals of the Petunia Festival Parade, scheduled for July 4. Persons having knowledge of Lee County residents who are, or will be, 100 years of age by July 1, 1976, are asked to contact festival headquarters, located in the Chamber of Commerce building.

All-American Garden grant to Kishwaukee

MALTA — Kishwaukee College is one of two schools nationwide receiving 1976 grants from the All-America Selections for a special garden.

For the past two years Kishwaukee College has been one of the 26 sites across North America with an All-America Garden. In 1976, Kishwaukee will also have the "Model Vegetable Garden."

The executive director of the All-America Selections said, "We selected Kishwaukee College because of its experience in conducting flower and vegetable trials for the Vaughan-Jacklin Corporation and because you have Dick DeLano on your staff—a highly competent instructor and garden writer."

DeLano, one of the three full-time horticulture instructors at Kishwaukee College, said the three vegetable gardens would total about half an acre and would be on the college's northeast corner of campus.

DeLano said the gardens would be planted this spring with several items started in the college's greenhouses. Students will be doing the bulk of the work in an on-the-job training environment.

He added the college's horticulture enrollment is at an all-time high and all graduates are expected to be placed in hort-related jobs.

Cupid's Story

Many people think of Cupid as a winged cherub who flies from person to person bestowing love with his bow and arrow. But Greek and Roman legends describe a far less benevolent God of Love. According to mythology, Cupid fell in love with a goddess named Psyche. He was so enamored of her beauty that he made it impossible for her to fall in love or to be loved by other men. When at last Cupid and Psyche were married, Cupid forbade his wife to look at him. When Psyche gave in to curiosity, Cupid left her. Later Cupid and Psyche were remarried by Jupiter.

Workshop for writing teachers set at SVC

A workshop for area high school and community college composition teachers entitled "How To Teach Writing — Better" will be held on Friday and Saturday, March 5 and 6 at Sauk Valley College according to Mrs. Kathryn Lillyman, Associate Professor of Spanish and English at SVC.

The two-day workshop will be conducted by Roger H. Garrison, Director of Special Programs at Westbrook College, Portland, Maine. Participants may receive one semester hour of credit through an Independent Studies class in English at SVC.

Mrs. Lillyman said that advance registration and payment of a $10 fee for the workshop will be required. The fee will cover registration costs as well as luncheon costs during the workshop.

Participants in the workshop will meet from 8:30 a.m., until noon and from 1:15 to 3:30 p.m., in Room 2K2 at the college. The intervening Friday evening should be left free by those who take part since they will have some homework required during the sessions.

Mrs. Lillyman said that the workshop will emphasize the process of teaching writing. Teachers taking part will study the development of an instructor's skills in diagnosis, prescription and guidance — especially for the marginal student.

Each participant will be taught to handle more students with less the effort than can be accommodated using traditional instructional methods. Other specific topics examined in the workshop will include: How to create appropriate diagnostic assignments and use them effectively; how to develop individual writing sequences for each student; how to give each student immediate feedback on his work, person-to-person; how to conduct and use the three to five minute interview; how and when to use literature as a teaching tool in writing classes; and, how to teach the student to teach himself.

Further information about the workshop and its registration process may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Lillyman at the college, 288-5511, Ext. 385.

Benjamin Franklin, flying a kite, may have discovered the presence of electricity, but it was Thomas Alva Edison who harnessed the power of electricity to serve man in unnumbered ways. If God, when saying, "Let there be light," had meant the illumination of the absence of light, then it was Edison who turned the switch. The genius of Menlo Park, N.J., born in Milan, Ohio, was not to discover the existence of something, but rather to find a way to use what had been detected. We know his name so well because his inventions affect us in so many ways. Whatever is powered by electricity which we use is almost certainly to have been invented by this genius who may have made the most achievement in the history of the world in perfecting a way to make practical use of a source of power which had been discovered. Edison held more than 2,500 patents. He was born in 1847 and died in 1931. On Oct. 21, 1929, on the 50th anniversary of the electric light, Henry Ford moved Edison's working laboratory from Menlo Park to Dearborn, Mich., where it was reconstructed in Greenville Village, a replica of an early American village. The laboratory can still be viewed in Greenville Village.

Oregon Council votes to hire appraiser

OREGON—At their regular meeting Monday night, the Oregon City Council agreed to acquire the services of William Jenks, real estate appraiser, to assess the valuation of five parcels of property facing Third Street and between Washington and Jefferson Streets for the purpose of making off-street city parking. The cost of Jenks' services will be $1,200.

In other business the council members heard a notice read by Mayor Chrissie Martin to the effect that the violation of the city liquor ordinance by Mrs. Joanne Arbogast, dba Trade-winds Lounge, would result in the suspension of her Class A license for 14 days effective March 1, unless the violation terms are met by that time. A residence requirement that the holder of a Class A liquor license must reside within the city limits of Oregon has not been proven and it is believed that her main residence is in Stillman Valley.

In other action, the council: —Approved the appointment of Strauda L. Wyatt as City of Oregon auxiliary police officer.

—Approved the proposal received from the audit firm of Lindgren, Callihan, Weaver and VanOsdol to audit the city's records for the fiscal year ending April 30 at an estimated cost of $1,650.

—Accepted the proposal received from XEM Insurance Consultants which was requested by Commissioner Robert Aurand. The proposal sets a daily fee basis of $200 accumulated eight hours work—prorated for part of a day.

—Heard the new laws regarding police training required as of Jan. 1 for officers who assume jobs after that time. The first one regulated the use of firearms which requires that all peace officers assuming duties after Jan. 1 complete a 24-hour course in the use of such firearms conducted by the Illinois Local Governmental Law Enforcement Officers Training Board.

The second new law requires that all full-time local law enforcement officers appointed after Jan. 1 must successfully complete a prescribed basic training course within the first six months of their initial employment.

1776 AMERICAN BICENTENNIAL 1976

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the 44th in a series of articles on the American Revolution for the Bicentennial year prepared by the American Antiquarian Society in cooperation with the American Newspaper Publishers Association Foundation.

by DR. FRANCIS G. WALETT
He was a crotchety man, one said cantankerous. He was also a man of raw courage, who had leadership qualities. This had been proven in many battles. When he was asked July 1777 to raise and command a brigade of New Hampshire men, John Stark agreed to fight again to protect his native soil.

Earlier in the year Stark had resigned his commission in the Continental Army and gone home in disgust. The tall, sinewy man with piercing blue eyes and set jaw had led New Hampshire militia at Bunker Hill; and he had fought hard at Trenton and Princeton. Yet the politicians at Philadelphia had promoted a number of junior colonels to the rank of brigadier general, ignoring him. Proud, sensitive and jealous of his honor, John Stark had angrily retired.

But now there was a dangerous situation facing the Hampshire Grants (Vermont) and perhaps even New Hampshire itself. A large British army under Gen. John Burgoyne had invaded New York from Canada. It was making its way ponderously through the wilderness south of Lake Champlain, heading for Albany. There was talk that the enemy—increasingly pressed for supplies and horses—was planning an expedition into New England.

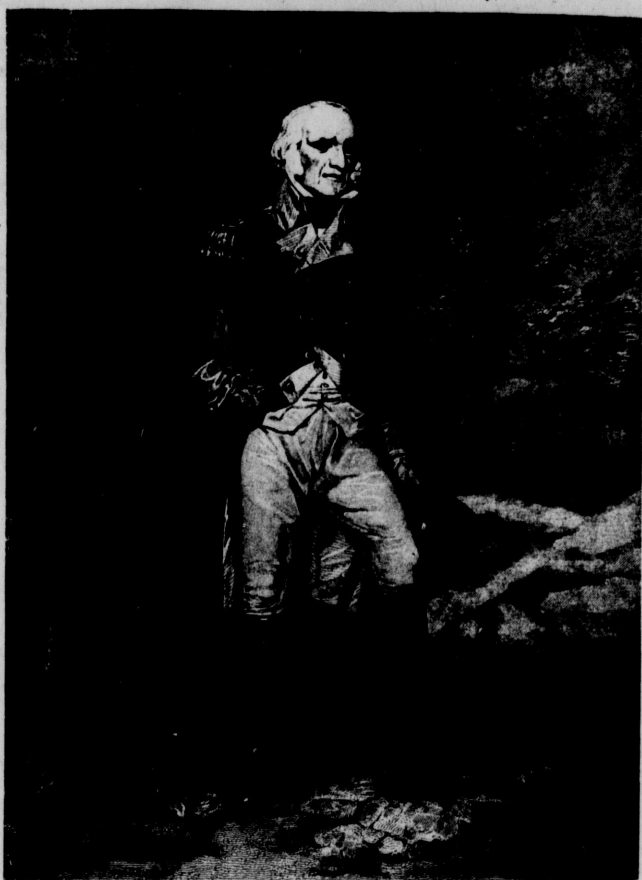

Burgoyne's Indian allies had gotten out of hand, too. Despite British efforts to restrain the natives, horrible atrocities occurred. News of these events naturally angered the settlers. And the shooting and scalping of Jane McCrea, a beautiful white girl with long, blonde hair, stirred up intense hatred of the invaders.

The Pennsylvania Evening Post (Aug. 12, 1777) carried a report about Indian outrages: "The frequent injuries and horrible actions committed by his (Burgoyne's) scouting parties on single unarmed men and defenceless women, are sufficient to give every man a thorough detestation of their whole conduct."

John Stark agreed to organize the militia, but there was one simple condition. It would be a New Hampshire force, and he would be accountable only to the General Court of the State. He would have nothing to do with Congress. Nor would he take orders from the Continental Army, especially from that "damned Dutchman," Gen. Philip Schuyler of New York.

It was no great task for a man of Stark's reputation to rally New Hampshire militia. Within a week after accepting the commission (July 18, 1777) he had recruited about 1,500 men, and by early August had moved them westward across the Connecticut River. At Manchester, Vt., he found a force of Green Mountain Boys under the leadership of Seth Warner.

General Schuyler, commander of the Continental Army in the north, sent Maj. Gen. Benjamin Lincoln with orders for Stark to march his forces toward the Hudson River to strengthen Schuyler's army. Defiantly and emphatically John Stark refused to comply with the order.

John Stark

This fine portrait of Gen. John Stark was done by Alonzo Chapin and engraved for Evert A. Duyckinck's National Portrait Gallery of Eminent Americans (New York, 1862). Stark's strength of character and determination of purpose are well captured by the artist in this painting. (Courtesy, American Antiquarian Society.)

Instead he moved his men southward to Bennington, where the Americans had gathered a quantity of military supplies. As events developed, it was a most fortunate decision. Burgoyne had first planned a foraging raid toward Manchester, Vt. Then he learned about rebel stores of food, ammunition, horses and oxen at Bennington. Hoping to capture these supplies and animals without much trouble, he sent out a mixed force of about 800 men led by a German officer, Lt. Col. Friedrich Baum.

How fortunate for the Americans that, because of his "insubordination," John Stark's small army was located at precisely the point to which Baum was heading!

Colonel Baum was hardly a good choice to lead this mission. How a man unable to speak one word of English could manage a campaign in a region where he would find few friends is hard to understand. In retrospect, however, it appears that the raid into Vermont was doomed from the start. As he proceeded, Baum got news that made him apprehensive, and he sent back for reinforcements. He then pushed on toward Bennington.

Vermont had never seen such a sight. Nor would she again. Along with some British grenadiers and Indians came a horseless German Dragoon regiment. Waddling through the underbrush in their heavy thigh-high jackboots, the dragoons constantly got their cumbersome swords tangled in the bushes. And this strange invasion of Vermont was heralded by the music of a German military band!

As Baum approached Bennington he learned the truth of the matter. By now Stark had been joined by Vermont and Massachusetts men. The American force now numbered about 2,000. About 400 more militia under Colonel Warner were ordered to hurry south from Manchester. The inept Baum decided to take a defensive position. He probably should have retreated immediately.

Given this situation, John Stark was determined to attack before reinforcements reached the royal forces. It was quite common then for commanders to stir up their men's emotions with battlefield oratory, and it was entirely in keeping with Stark's character for him to do so. Legend (often repeated) has it that as he prepared for the assault he mounted his horse and shouted, "See there men! There they are! We'll beat them before night, or Molly Stark will be a widow."

In the action that followed (Aug. 16, 1777), the enemy troops were routed with heavy losses by the Americans; Colonel Baum himself was mortally wounded. Except for the Indians, most of whom got away, practically all of the raiding force were either killed or captured. Although the elated militia immediately began looting and celebrating, the fighting was not all over that day near Bennington.

A slow-moving relief detachment of about 650 Hessians under Lt. Col. Heinrich Breyman, which had not arrived in time to save Baum, finally came upon the battle scene. This German was a tough fighter, and for a time he made things hot for the Americans. Fortunately, Colonel Warner's men had arrived, and Breyman (wounded in the leg and with five bullet holes in his uniform) had to fall back. After dark he managed to escape with about two-thirds of his men.

British losses in the Bennington debacle were a bitter blow. Over 900 of the raiding forces failed to return: 207 were dead on the battlefield and 700 prisoners had surrendered. The Americans also captured much valuable equipment—several hundred muskets, four brass cannon, about 250 swords and four ammunition wagons. Patriot losses totalled about 80 casualties.

General Burgoyne had not only failed to obtain much-needed supplies, but also had lost a sizable part of his army. In addition, his position in the upper Hudson valley became more precarious as the gathering American forces threatened to cut his long supply line and block his route to Albany. In effect, Burgoyne never recovered from the battle of Bennington.

With the stage set for the defeat of the British at Saratoga, American morale was greatly boosted by Bennington. For John Stark it was a sweet if somewhat lucky victory, but he had won a smashing triumph over trained European soldiers with undisciplined but determined militia, mostly innocent of the arts of war. Shortly, Congress commissioned John Stark a brigadier general in the Continental Army.

A Patriot present at Bennington reported in the Pennsylvania Evening Post: "This victory is thought by some to equal any that has happened during the present controversy; and, as long as prudence, moderation, sobriety and valor are of any estimation... will not fail to endear General Stark to them."

Brandau gets 24 and Piper 17 Bulldogs crush Eagles 74-50

By MIKE CUNIFF
Telegraph Sports Editor
OHIO— Before the game started, the Ohio High School Band serenaded the crowd with "The Horse" and several other musical numbers, but once the opening tip occurred, the Ohio Bulldogs trampled the Wyandot Eagles, 74-50, here, Tuesday.

The Bulldogs raced to a 35-19 halftime bulge and then coasted to their fifth win without a loss in the Bureau Valley Conference, while Wyandot drops to 0-5. Ohio now has only a game with Tampico Feb. 20 to clinch the Bureau Valley championship.

Brandau Gets 24
Jim Brandau, 6'4" senior guard, paced the Bulldogs with 24 points based on a dozen field goals. Brandau drilled in eight baskets (10 attempts) during the second quarter, when Ohio extended an 11-9 lead to the 16-point margin.

Brandau was backed by 17 points by sophomore guard Dan Piper, while Tom Yucus and Gary Phillips also collected 10 markers each. The Bulldogs ended with 32 baskets in 72 attempts, while Wyandot was 18 of 56.

Tom Yucus gave Ohio a 4-0 lead with back-to-back buckets before Rusty Richards put in a 15-footer for the initial Eagles digits. Herb Dremann added a driving layup plus a free throw, while Piper and Brandau got a basket each before the frame ended.

Wyandot Scoring
Charlie Crayne had four points, Wes Shipp two and Jim Hamrick one for Wyandot. The Eagles pounded the offensive boards with tenacity in the opening period, as Wyandot got six more chances at the scoring end because of erratic carom recoveries.

Brandau was the offensive punch in the second quarter with 16 of the 24 Ohio markers, including eight of the first nine baskets. He had missed his first four attempts of the game before getting his initial basket with a minute to go in the opening quarter.

The left-handed senior switched sides in the second quarter, moving over to the right side to dump in five successive hoops from the 15-20 foot range. A steal and assisting pass by Duane Blaine freed Brandau to can a 15-footer from the left to extend the Bulldogs' lead to 23-14.

Only Retaliation
The only retaliatory Eagles points in the Brandau streak were a pair of offensive rebound baskets by Rod Lange. Wyandot had 10 offensive boards in the initial 11 minutes of the contest.

Ohio could have blown the game wide open earlier, but could connect on only one of 10 free throw chances. Brandau tipped in a missed Piper effort and the hit a 20-footer via a Dremann screen to make it 29-18.

The Bulldogs extended their margin to 16 at half as Blaine put in a layup off a Brandau steal, plus two free throws each by Phillips and Bruce Schultz. Wyandot committed 14 turnovers in the frame to boost this negative factor to 17 at half.

Four Baskets
Piper popped in four baskets during the third quarter (six attempts), while Brandau also threaded three buckets (six shots) as Ohio held a 20-14 advantage. Piper put in a fast-break layup, an offensive rebound, a feed from Brandau and a 15-footer.

Brandau canned a short jumper via an out-of-bounds play, an offensive rebound of his own missed attempt, plus another 15-footer. Phillips added a driving layup, Dremann a short jumper with an assist to Phillips, and Blaine a layup.

Crayne had six points, Richards four and Bruce Gibson two for Wyandot. Piper wrapped it up with seven points, Tom Yucus added six, while Phillips had four and Tom Sibigroth two in the final stanza.

Richards Has Six
Richards tallied six, Shipp four, Joe Bates four, and Crayne three for the visitors. Tom Yucus had two offensive rebound buckets, Sibigroth and Piper one each for the Buldogs, who were seven of 20 from the field in the eight minutes.

Dave Mead, Ohio varsity coach, commented after the victory, "I was pleased with Piper's play. His general leadership capacity and defense looked better tonight than it has all year. He used his head tonight and this will keep him out of foul trouble."

"Add Brandau's 16 points in the second quarter. We were going to him pretty much. It was funny. He was standing in his favorite areas in the first quarter and could not hit. We moved him out of his regular area and he started putting the ball in the hoop. We gave him some screens and he got open."

"A Time"
"There was a time in the first quarter when we were ahead 6-4," Mead continued, "and then we held them at bay for a minute which is a pleasing sight. We did not score any points in that span, either, but getting into this part of the season with the Regionals coming up, you want that tough defensive play."

"Wyandot is not a poor scoring team, either. I imagine they are scoring in the mid 60s and we held them to 50 while playing a lot of people. We had a lot of people scoring. The only sad spot is we didn't make our free throws."

"We only made 10 of 22 and it just seems like when we feel like we don't need them, they don't concentrate at the line. It is just mental. When we get into important games, like against Depue Friday, we will need every point we can get. I have confidence when we need them."

the kids will come through."

Total of Nine
Tom Yucus paced the Bulldogs' boardmen with four offensive and five defensive grabs for a total of nine. Keith Yucus got four and two, respectively, for six, while Piper had five and one. Ohio finished with 21 offensive and 19 defensive caroms.

Piper handed out seven assists, while Blaine had four despite limited playing time due to a foot injury. Brandau ended with four steals, while Phillips came up with three. Ohio, now 15-4 for the year, will travel to Depue for a key Little Eight Conference encounter Friday.

Granzow gets 33 in Sauk Valley win

SAUK VALLEY— Tim Granzow poured in 33 points to enable the Sauk Valley Redmen to boost their season record to 16-9 with an 85-68 triumph against Illinois Central, here, Tuesday night.

Granzow collected 19 markers as Sauk Valley raced to a 45-30 half-time bulge. "We played well with good defense," stated Frank Palumbo, Sauk Valley coach. "Our press hurt them a great deal."

"Granzow pulled down 14 rebounds and did a good job offensively. In the first half we played extremely well. At one time in the second half we were up by 19 and then they cut it two."

"Just as suddenly, though, we had it back up to 17. We seem to be peaking again," Palumbo continued, "and this is the right time. We have two important conference games left and then go to sectional play."

The Redmen will next travel to Black Hawk East Thursday.

Granzow dumped in 15 baskets and three free throws for his 33 points. Steve Hook added 17 and Mark Marinangeli 11 for Sauk Valley. Dave Lloyd canned 12 buckets for 24 markers to pace the losers.

Rochelle takes two from Dixon girls

By JIM SPURGEON
Telegraph Sports Writer

Rochelle handed the Dixon High School girls interscholastic basketball team its first loss of the year Tuesday night, 40-25, at Lancaster Gymnasium.

Rochelle worked the ball very well on offense, penetrating the Dixon defense and getting high percentage shots. The winners also did a good job on the offensive boards, often getting second and third shots.

Meanwhile, Dixon had problems penetrating Rochelle's zone defense. As a result, the home team was cold from the field, getting mostly low percentage shots.

The game was three minutes old before Rochelle's Deb Austin scored a field goal. Austin tallied again :38 later, to give her team a 4-0 lead before Donna Pinegar hit Dixon's first points on a basket with 3:57 left. Both teams added another bucket in the quarter.

Terri Zimmerman scored for Rochelle, answered by Dixon's Lori Heeg. Thus, the visitors held a 6-4 advantage as the quarter ended. The second stanza was evenly played, as both teams scored eight points.

The second half was all Rochelle, as the winners outscored Dixon 13-6 in the third quarter and 13-7 in the fourth. Zimmerman boosted the Rochelle lead to 16-12 on an offensive rebound, with 7:35 to go in the third stanza.

Cheri Edwards scored with 6:53 left, followed in succession by a Sheryl Fraley basket, plus two more by Edwards. Rochelle had zoomed its advantage to 24-12 before Marty Shroyer hit a free throw for Dixon's first point of the quarter.

A technical foul was assessed to Dixon coach Roy Bridgeman with :50 left. Fraley converted the free throw and Rochelle held a 27-18 lead.

Rochelle pulled away in the final quarter as both teams cleared the bench. Edwards paced the winners with 11 points. Linn Beerman and Zimmerman added six apiece. Shroyer and Heeg led Dixon with six each. Pinegar and Betty Flanagan both contributed four.

Debbie Fritts had eight while Tami Trulock and Theresa Mekeel both added six. The Dixon varsity, now 2-1 for the season, will next host Geneseo Thursday. The sophomore game will begin the evening at 6 p.m.

Ski America

Don't lose your warm

By Bob Beattie

Q. I have extremely poor circulation in my ears, nose, hands, and feet. Do you have any special remedies for this? T.M., Dallas, Tex.

A. If your extremities tend to become cold easily, one solution is to keep the other parts of your body, particularly your chest, warm. In addition, wear a hat. The greatest body heat loss is from your head and a hat conserves warmth for all parts of your body to use, not just your ears. If you have cold hands, wear mittens rather than gloves. Down mitts may do the trick. Properly fitting boots — room for the toes to move while the foot is snug but not cramped — should help solve the cold foot problem. If you wear buckle boots, loosen them while you ride the lift; this improves circulation. And always wear clean, dry socks. One step short of wearing a full-face mask to protect your nose, try covering your nose with a petroleum jelly product. The oil helps to insulate your face from the cold. Several cosmetic firms make weather proofers.

Q. How can I select the best skis for me? J.B., Los Gatos, Calif.

A. Determining your level as a skier, is a factor as well as your height, weight and kind of skiing you plan to do. The October issues of "Ski" and "Skiing" magazines have excellent in-depth articles on this subject. A reputable ski shop can assist you, also.

Q. I'd like to start cross-country skiing, but am afraid of the expense. How much would a full set of cross-country equipment cost? B.H., Sacramento, Calif.

A. A full set of cross-country equipment costs less than $100 and if you take advantage of the prewinter sales, a full outfit can cost as little as $50. The low cost involved in cross-country skiing is one of its biggest selling points.

Motta speaks up

By The Associated Press

Dick Motta didn't like the 6-5 odds. Not only did his Chicago Bulls have to face the five Philadelphia 76ers, he said, but a referee as well.

"That last foul on (Bob) Love near the end of the game was a typical Don Murphy call," said Motta after dropping an 85-84 National Basketball Association decision. "We've won only three games with him as referee."

It is academic whether Murphy cost the Bulls the game. More to the point, the Bulls cost themselves the game when they blew a 15-point lead with poor shooting.

"Our lackluster performance in the third quarter really hurt us," Motta admitted. "Going 7-for-20 from the field did not help at all."

Then, too, there was the strength of the 76ers' rebounding game. The 76ers, who were not rebounding well in the first half, heard about it from Coach Gene Shue at intermission and really made up for it later.

With the help of their rebounding strength, the 76ers eventually shot ahead on Steve Mix's marksmanship in the final two minutes.

In other NBA games, it was Atlanta 111, Kansas City 89; Buffalo 115, Washington 105; New York 104, Milwaukee 97; New Orleans 130, Golden State 124 in overtime and Los Angeles 106, Detroit 88.

Finland captures second gold medal

INNSBRUCK (AP) — Finland won its second gold medal of the 12th Olympic Winter Games today when its four-man cross country ski team took the 40-kilometer (24.8 miles) relay and the United States team came in sixth — its best finish ever in this event.

The quartet of Matti Pitkanen, Juha Mieto, Pertti Teuraervi and Arto Koivisto toured the course in two hours, seven minutes, 59.72 seconds to give Finland its first victory in the event since the Squaw Valley, Calif., Olympics in 1960.

Norway won the silver medal in 2:09:58.36 and the Soviet Union took the bronze in 2:10:51.46.

The United States, which had moved into third place on the strength of a strong third leg by Bill Koch of Guilford, Vt., wound up sixth in 2:11:41.35.

Koch, who earned a silver medal last Thursday in the 30-kilometer (18.6 miles) cross country event, had the fastest individual time on the third lap of the race — 30:43.61. He was joined in today's relay by Doug Peterson of Minneapolis, Tim Caldwell of Putney, Vt., and anchorman Ron Yeager of Durango, Colo.

After 22 events, the Soviet Union continued to lead the medal standings with 10 gold, four silver and seven bronze and East Germany was second with six gold, four silver and three bronze. The U.S. was third in total medals with eight but dropped behind Finland in the medal standings. The Finns have two golds to the Americans' one.

Cindy Nelson, a daredevil gambler on skis, was the main hope today if the streaking Americans were to continue their inside straight medals run. But the real ace in the hole for the Americans is figure skater Dorothy Hamill, who is taking a long look at the biggest pot of gold in her career.

Miss Nelson, of Lutsen, Minn., goes after her second Alpine medal in the women's slalom event today on a day when the surprising Americans were not expected to do well. Miss Nelson won a bronze in the downhill Monday.

No American was expected to win a medal in the men's 5,000-meter speed skating competition. Speed skating has been the United States' most lucrative category here, with five medals thus far, including Dan Immerfall's stunning third-place finish in the 500 meters.

Also scheduled for today was the finals in men's figure skating, in which John Curry, a Britisher living in the United States, was favored to win a gold medal but no American was expected to crack the top three.

Dr. Says: Carotid stenosis explained

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB— I would appreciate knowing the cause of carotid stenosis. What causes this buildup and what is it made of?
DEAR READER— The obstruction is caused by the buildup of fatty-cholesterol deposits in the wall of the carotid artery. There are two carotid arteries, a right and a left carotid. These are located on each side of your trachea. Each one divides into two main branches, an external and internal carotid. The external carotid supplies the outside region of the head and the internal carotid artery enters the skull and is a major part of the circulation to the brain.

The fatty-cholesterol deposits that obstruct the carotid are exactly the same thing that obstructs the coronary arteries to the heart to cause heart attacks or obstruct arteries inside the brain causing strokes. The disease is a disease of arteries, not a disease of the heart or the brain and it can affect any artery in the body. The cause of these deposits is not absolutely clear but we know the likelihood of having them is increased with high blood cholesterol levels and high blood pressure. Obstruction of the carotid arteries particularly with buildup of fatty-cholesterol deposits in other arteries in the brain can lead to a stroke or undesirable symptoms associated with inadequate blood flow to the brain.

DEAR DR. LAMB— One time you told what to do for leg or muscle spasms. I have had them for several years and the only thing the doctors give me is quinine and I have to take so much that it upsets my stomach. Would you tell me your remedy again?
DEAR READER— Leg cramps are caused by many things and people subject to them should have a medical examination. You can't cure any disorders, such as poor circulation, with the method I suggested but the method can give some people relief. The trick is to keep the feet and legs warm. Wear warm, long socks to bed. The feet and legs will cool first if you are cold. The circulation is literally diminished to the limbs to conserve heat in the vital center of the body. Also the arteries carrying blood to the legs will transfer heat to cold blood in the veins returning to the center of the body. This heat transfer mechanism conserves heat for the vital center of the body but allows the temperature in the limbs to drop. You counteract this by keeping the whole body warm and by keeping the legs warm. Some people also benefit from increasing the calcium intake. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Divorce, re-wed, divorce, for income tax break

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP) — One good divorce deserves another — as far as David and Angie Boyter are concerned.

The Boyters' second marriage is only a month old, but already they say they are contemplating their second divorce. Their first divorce was in Haiti Dec. 8, ending a nine-year marriage. They remarried a month later.

Their behavior is the result of anger — not directed at each other, but at the American income tax system. The Boyters say the system favors single persons over married tax-payers.

"We did it more for principle than anything else," Mrs. Boyter said. "We just kept getting madder and madder each year."

Both Boyters work for the federal government and earn about $23,000 each annually.

Mrs. Boyter estimates their 1975 taxes as a married couple would be about $10,300, regardless of whether they filed a joint or single return. If they were single, she says, each would pay about $4,500, a total of $9,000. The $1,300 difference added up to divorce for them.

"About three years ago they gave a tax break to single persons," Mrs. Boyter said. "But that doesn't apply to married persons filing separately."

"And then, with last year's tax rebate we got rooked again. If we had been two single people we would have gotten back about $200 each. As a married couple we just got $100. I think that was the last straw.

"If they don't change the laws, I have every intention of getting a divorce again this year."

It is possible for a couple earning about equal salaries to save some money by filing as single persons, said David Estey, a spokesman for the Internal Revenue Service's Baltimore office.

He said Congress passed the Revenue Act of 1971 to bring rates for single persons in line with the rates for married couples.

In some income brackets, it is cheaper to file as a single person, he added, but there is a question whether the tax saving is worth the inconvenience and expense of a divorce.

The Boyter's divorce in Haiti cost about $1,100 — including air fare, hotel and lawyer fees.

Ford, Reagan both boast of their excellent health

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both President Ford and Republican challenger Ronald Reagan are touting their good health, with Ford releasing an optimistic medical report and Reagan saying he feels "great."

Ford is in good health for a 62-year-old man, although he has had occasional knee injuries and what his doctor calls recurring rectal bleeding.

Fulfilling a political promise for full disclosure about his health, Ford overruled the objections of his doctor and Monday released an unusually frank, seven-page summary of his Jan. 25 medical exam.

Meanwhile, Reagan, campaigning in Rochester, N.H., was asked about his age and health.

"I feel just fine ... I feel great," the former California governor said. "I can still beat my son at arm wrestling."

An aide said Reagan, who turned 65 last week and is the oldest declared presidential candidate, released a detailed medical history at the beginning of the year which showed him to be healthy.

"And the governor has instructed his physician, Dr. John Sharp of Santa Monica, to answer all inquiries from the press about his health," the aide said.

The Ford health summary, crammed with bits and pieces relating to the President's personal habits, was written by Rear Adm. William M. Lukash, the presidential physician. Lukash has repeatedly resisted discussing what he termed "medical trivia" about his patient.

Lukash reported that in the examinations at the Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital, "all the laboratory tests were normal." Among things tested were blood components, uric acid and levels of fatty acids and cholesterol.

The Lockheed scandal—another furor for the House of Orange

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — The charge that Prince Bernhard got $1.1 million to influence the Dutch government to buy Lockheed planes is the fourth major furor to hit the House of Orange since Queen Juliana came to the throne in 1948.

None of it has hurt the 65-year-old queen's bulging pocketbook.

The extent of Juliana's fortune has never been officially disclosed, but an unofficial estimate in the late 1960's indicated her bank balance then was around $100 million.

In addition, she has sizable holdings in the giant Royal Dutch Shell oil company, the Algemene Bank Nederland, the country's largest commercial bank, and other major Dutch companies.

One financial expert said her private fortune must be "huge."

The first big scandal in her reign came in the 1950's, when she and Bernhard turned to a faith healer, Greet Hofmans, in the hope that she could help their partially blind youngest daughter, Princess Christina.

Miss Hofmans became the queen's confidante, was reported advising her on matters of state and was dubbed the Rasputin of the Dutch court. Bernhard objected, and there were rumors of divorce and abdication. Unconfirmed reports said Juliana and her husband lived in separate wings of Soestdijk Palace for six months, communicating only by notes.

The crisis ended in 1956 with a statement from the royal couple that they had resolved their differences and "look forward to the future with confidence." Bernhard banned Miss Hofmans from the palace, and Princess Christina's sight improved under conventional treatment.

The next bombshell came in 1964 when Princess Irene, the couple's second daughter, became a Roman Catholic to marry the Carlist pretender to the Spanish throne, Prince Hugo Carlos of Bourbon-Parma. The Protestant Dutch were shocked.

Irene renounced her rights to the Dutch throne and was married in Rome. Her parents stayed home and watched the ceremony on television.

Public opposition was aroused by another royal romance in 1966 when Crown Princess Beatrix became engaged to a West German diplomat, Claus von Amsberg. Objections were voiced to his teen-age membership in Nazi youth and labor organizations during the war, and there were smoke bombs and hostile demonstrations outside the church during the wedding ceremony in Amsterdam.

The hostility evaporated the next year when Beatrix gave birth to a son, the first Prince of Orange in the line of succession since 1884.

The earlier crises did no damage to the popularity of the queen and her husband and the widespread affection for her. The effect of the Lockheed scandal depends on the investigation which the government has promised. Bernhard, denying he received any money, said he welcomed a full inquiry.

People in the news

WASHINGTON (AP) — "It is time for Americans to become chauvinistic about their culture and stop kowtowing to Europe," says opera star Beverly Sills.

She also told a Monday luncheon of Wolf Trap Associates, which operates the only national park for the performing arts, "It is no longer necessary for an opera singer to have an exotic European voice. We have taste, and if we like something we should be verbal about it. We are behind Europe in only one way and that is in government subsidization."

The solution to opera's financial plight, she said, lies in greater government subsidy and an increase in shared productions, in which various companies use the same sets and costumes.

LONDON (AP) — On the morning after their second wedding, Richard Burton had "two of the reddest and bluest eyes I have encountered," recalls the bride, actress Elizabeth Taylor.

"I crawled into bed beside him and just held him very close," she said in an interview with the British magazine "Woman." "My Welshman is indeed a wizard. We woke about three hours later, refreshed as if he had just been christened."

"How can you get mad at anyone so utterly outrageous?"

BANANAL ISLAND, Brazil (AP) — The 76-year-old president of Finland visited sunny Brazil and said, "It felt comfortable to leave behind 27 below zero (centigrade) and find yourself in a marvelous oasis ... where the temperature is 34 above zero."

President Urho Kekkonen arrived on Sunday and spent the entire day Monday fishing in the Araguaia River. He caught a 30 pound fish, a Pirarara, which he had cooked for dinner.

LIMERICK, Irish Republic (AP) — Tiede Herrema, 53, who was kidnapped last October by Irish Republican Army members, will return to Holland as personnel manager of the Azko Company. He was kidnapped last October near his home and held for 36 days before being released after an 18-day siege in Monasterevin, County Kildare.

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Retired Navy Capt. James A. Mulligan, 49, a former Vietnam prisoner of war, is expected to announce Thursday that he will seek the Democratic nomination to the U.S. House from Virginia's 2nd District.

Lt. Governor race:

Four-way battle for low key office

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Two men and two women are spending thousands of dollars and three months of energy to win election to a state office with no clear responsibilities and fewer employees than a modern grocery store.

The four candidates, each seeking party nomination to run for lieutenant governor, square off in the March 16 primary election.

The office of lieutenant governor has only 22 employees, and its $400,000 budget for the current fiscal year roughly equals the total amount which the four candidates are likely to spend in their campaigns.

The Democratic candidates in the race are the incumbent, Neil Hartigan, 37, of Chicago, and 48-year-old Joanne Alter, also from Chicago and a commissioner of the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

The Republican candidates are Joan Anderson, 50, of Western Springs, also a Metropolitan Sanitary District commissioner, and St. Clair County Sheriff Dave O'Neal, 38, of Belleville.

The responsibilities of most elected state officials are outlined in the constitution — the attorney general is the chief legal officer, the secretary of state the chief record-keeper, and so on.

But other than having the responsibility to succeed the governor if necessary, the lieutenant governor has no other assigned job except to "...perform the duties and exercise the powers in the Executive Branch that may be delegated him by the governor and that may be prescribed by law."

Those who drafted the constitution had hoped that the governor and lieutenant governor would work as a team.

Prior experience had shown that by electing governors and lieutenant governors separately, voters often wound up with feuding executives from different parties.

Beginning in 1972 — the first election following adoption of the new constitution — the governor and lieutenant governor were elected together as a team.

However, the first such "team" elected included Daniel Walker and Neil Hartigan, who came from different wings of the Democratic party and have taken few pains to mask their differences and personal antagonism.

Hartigan says that despite his problems with Walker, he is more qualified than Mrs. Alter to step in, if required, and run state government.

"That is the issue. You can talk about anything else you want, but that's the primary issue of any lieutenant governor's race — who's the person most ready to step in and run the state if you should have to do it?" Hartigan said.

Hartigan openly opposed the Walker administration on issues such as tax relief for persons over 65, control of the state fair and creation of a coal development bureaucracy.

He contends he offered to take any assignment the governor would make and for the most part was spurned.

If a Walker-Hartigan ticket were elected in November, would their feud continue?

Hartigan doesn't like to discuss that possibility because he is working hard for Walker's opponent, Secretary of State Michael Howlett.

But if Walker were nominated, Hartigan said he would ask for public assurances he will play a role in the administration.

"If we were elected in the primary, I would go to him and ask that he make very clear publicly how he felt about specific things. I was willing to take his word before," he said.

Hartigan and Mrs. Alter each say they will support the winner of the Democratic primary for lieutenant governor.

Mrs. Alter said she doesn't feel the role of lieutenant governor has been developed and has criticized Hartigan's close association with Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley as a Democratic ward committeeman.

"One of the prime requirements for being an effective lieutenant governor is to be able to work with the governor — not to be working for City Hall," she said.

She said if nominated she could work with either Walker or Howlett.

She said she differs with Walker on some issues, such as the death penalty, which she opposes, and says she will not be afraid to publicly oppose the governor, whoever that is, if she were elected.

"In order to govern effectively, you don't need to be a 'yes' person, but you do have to be able to work with the governor and to carry out programs mutually agreed upon," she said.

Mrs. Alter was endorsed by the Independent Voters of Illinois over Hartigan. The IVI refused to endorse either Democratic candidate for governor.

Mrs. Alter was elected commissioner of the Sanitary District in 1972 and says she has taken strong stands in favor of environmental and conservation issues.

She has worked in every Democratic presidential campaign since that of Adlai Stevenson, represented either Illinois or the United States at three United Nations conferences and helped found the Illinois Democratic Women's Caucus in 1971.

As lieutenant governor, she said she would answer questions from citizens about state government and work to attract business and industry to Illinois.

Mrs. Alter has endorsed the three proposed constitutional amendments backed by the Coalition for Political Honesty which she believes will help clean up government.

Hartigan has opposed the amendments, saying the goals called for could better be achieved through legislation.

Mrs. Alter and Mrs. Anderson each say they are not exploiting the fact that they are women to win votes.

But if either of them win in the November general election, she would be the first woman elected to a major state office.

Mrs. Anderson was elected as a sanitary district commissioner in 1972 and says this experience as well as that as a delegate to the constitutional convention and a member of its local government committee qualify her for lieutenant governor.

She was also elected as board member of the College of DuPage in 1971 and has served on numerous committees and commissions.

She said she would make the lieutenant governor's office a link between government and citizens, an unbiased co-ordinator of government agency reorganization and a collector of information relating to the financial impact of state or federal programs on local governments.

WHAT A WONDERFUL
WAY TO LOSE FAT!

THE "MODEL-ETTS" WAY HELPS CURB YOUR APPETITE
HELPS YOU LOSE THAT EXTRA WEIGHT
■ NO CALORIE COUNTING! ■ NO EXERCISES!
■ NO SPECIAL DIETS!

No. 787

Thanks to a group of New York doctors, you can now lose pounds of ugly fat without going on any special diet, without cutting out any special foods.

HELPS REDUCE HUNGRY MOMENTS
These New York doctors discovered a food adjunct called "MODEL-ETTS."

"Model-etts" does remarkable things. It helps you cut down your caloric intake by a natural automatic curbing of the appetite and of the desire for foods, resulting automatically in a reduced intake of food.

Before "Model-etts" was offered to you, it was tested clinically by the doctors on a large group of non-glandular overweight men and women.

The doctors carefully checked results, and here is what they found:

1. Weight losses of 6 to 20 pounds without any ill effects whatsoever.

2. 96% of the men and women who used "Model-etts" lost weight.

"Model-etts" is absolutely safe. It is a food adjunct - not a drug.

So, start today to shed those unwanted pounds and inches. If your condition is glandular or organic, see your doctor. "Model-etts" may help you stay on the diet your doctor recommends. Ask him about it.

You can get a two month's supply of "Model-etts" for $5.00 on money back guarantee. In clinical tests, "Model-etts" was 96% successful. "Model-etts" may not be 100% successful in all cases, but you take no risk in trying "Model-etts" on our Money Back Guarantee.

Come to General Nutrition to get "MODEL-ETTS." The sooner you start, the sooner you may have the loss of weight you yearn for.

Sounds too good to be true,
but it is true!

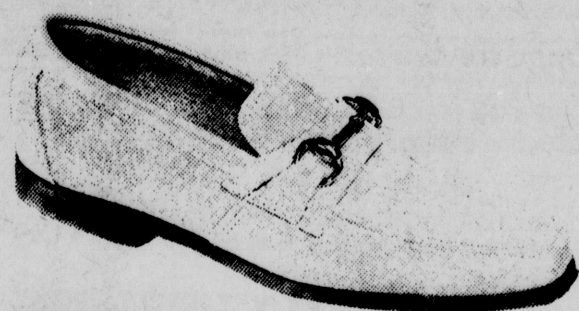

How Model-etts
Curbs Your Appetite
In the opinion of the supervising physician, based on the average of weight losses in the clinical tests, his calculations showed that 1
Model-etts Wafer has the hunger satisfying capacity of 1 pound boiled potatoes or 4 eggs or 5
slices of white bread, yet it contains only 6 calories.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE G-603: Lorna D., aged 20, was one of my psychology students in Applied Psychology at Northwestern University. She had attempted suicide when she found that her fiancé had eloped with another girl during the Christmas vacation. "Dr. Crane," she tearfully informed me, "I don't want to go on living!"

"For I feel all gone inside and can't eat or sleep or enjoy anything or anybody."

"All my future hopes have turned to ashes and I could never fall in love again, so why should I go on living?"

Campus Love Games
So I appealed to Lorna's sense of loyalty to her parents, telling her they had struggled to send her to the university, so she should try to pay them back by teaching for a few years before she died.

And I coaxed her into one of the many "Campus Love Games" I employed to rehabilitate jilted coeds.

For I challenged her positive statement that she could never become interested in any other man — ever!

Reluctantly, she at last agreed to return to her college classes and accept dates from the man I would designate.

"Dr. Crane," she protested, "it is just a waste of time, for I can never be happy with any other man I might date, so it will be just like taking castor oil for me to waste his time."

But I prodded her into going to a basketball game the next Friday night. And her escort was a student I selected from our Applied Psychology class. He was somewhat soured on women because of his own previous unhappy romance, so I figured this would be a good experiment to prove how love can be developed merely by going through the proper motions.

For we have an axiom of psychology that states: "Act the way you'd like to be and soon you'll be the way you act!"

On their first date at the ball game, they were no more interested in each other than they would have been in taking bitter medicine.

But as civilized adults, they had agreed to use my "H-E-L-P" conversational formula to maintain easy repartee.

He took her to the confecti- onery shop after the game and they dined on malted milks.

Politely she thanked him when he left at the dormitory. But she had become some- what interested in seeing Northwestern win the game and that pleasurable emotion was then subconsciously linked with the other's personality.

So, too, was the gastric desire produced by the malted milk.

Each week they had agreed to date each other at least once, and all those subconscious pleasurable reactions to a movie, a picnic, a dance, and even attending church to- gether, became fastened to other's personality, thereby starting a romantic "halo."

This is the "earned love" method by which most couples fall in love.

After a month, they be- ginning to smile at each other and chatter gayly while on their dates, for each had now become an emotional "crutch" to support the other's ego.

Since she was a charming coed and he was likewise quite attractive, they began to feel the magnetism of each other's presence and when they finally kissed, romance came into full bloom!

Send for the booklet "For- mula For Being An Interesting Conversationalist," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Melott, Ind. 47958, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)
